

Public Policy Network Conference 09

Preliminary Call for Papers

The Annual Conference of the Public Policy Network for 2009 is being held at the Australian National University on 29 and 30 January.

As agreed at the last Conference, the 2009 event will devote the first of the two days to papers addressing the public policy implications of climate change. Proposals for papers on this and other public policy topics are now being sought.

Please email draft abstracts or forward any inquiries to ppn2009@anu.edu.au

A website will be up and running within the next few months with further details of the venue and accommodation arrangements.
